At Entre Cielos Wine & Wellness, we promote responsible and sustainable tourism, ensuring that visits to Mendoza's natural surroundings are both enriching and respectful of biodiversity and the landscape. To achieve this, we have developed a set of best practices aimed at minimizing environmental impact while maximizing connection with nature.

A. Protection of the Natural Environment

- Do not remove flora or disturb local wildlife. Enjoy nature without disrupting its balance.
- Stay on designated trails to prevent soil erosion and ecosystem disruption.
- Do not litter. Use the hotel's recycling points or take waste back with you.
- Respect the silence and tranquility of the surroundings, avoiding noise that could disturb wildlife and other visitors' experiences.

B. Responsible Use of Natural Resources

- Bring a reusable water bottle and use the filtered water stations instead of purchasing plastic bottles.
- Avoid wasting water during recreational activities and use it only when necessary.
- Opt for sustainable mobility, such as walking or biking, to reduce your carbon footprint during excursions.

C. Preservation of the Landscape and Biodiversity

- Do not start campfires or smoke in natural areas to prevent wildfires.
- Do not feed wild animals, as it disrupts their natural behavior and diet.
- Follow the guidance of local tour guides and respect signage in each natural area visited.
- Choose low-impact activities such as hiking, horseback riding, or sustainable wine tourism experiences.

D. Respectful Connection with Local Culture

- Respect the traditions and customs of local communities, interacting with them ethically and responsibly.
- Support the local economy by valuing and purchasing local products and handicrafts.
- Follow the hotel and guide recommendations on sustainable tourism practices in the region.

This code of conduct reflects our commitment to preserving Mendoza's natural environment while offering authentic and respectful experiences for our guests. We invite everyone to adopt these practices to ensure a more sustainable and responsible approach to tourism.
